

Institutional Membership Scheme

Australasian society for computers in learning in tertiary education

ASCILITE's Institutional Membership Scheme is designed to reduce costs to institutions that currently pay for a number of individual subscriptions to the society.

Under this scheme, individual staff member contact details are provided to ASCILITE at the time of subscription. During the term of the membership, the institution may change individual member names at any time so long as the maximum number of members is not exceeded.

To qualify for this scheme, all members covered by an institutional membership subscription must be staff or students of the institution.

Membership benefits

- Participation in an international community of experts and professionals in the educational use of technologies through conferences, newsletters and community events
- Participation in special interest groups and communities of practice.
- Discounted registration to the highly acclaimed annual ASCILITE Conference.
- Eligibility for entry to the prestigious annual ASCILITE awards for exemplary use of educational technologies in tertiary education.
- High exposure for ASCILITE conference papers through open access proceedings.
- High exposure for refereed journal articles through ASCILITE's highly regarded Australasian Journal of Educational Technology, which also provides open access.
- Eligibility to participate in the Community Mentoring Programme to assist with achievement of professional goals.
- Participation in CMALT, a unique professional accreditation scheme with group discounts available to institutions.
- Access to ASCILITE's regular bulletin with information on national and international events, initiatives, funding and job opportunities.
